

Contents of Hume's Treatise of Human Nature, Book III: Morals

Part i: Virtue and vice in general

- 1: Moral distinctions aren't derived from reason..... 225
- 2: Moral distinctions are derived from a moral sense 232

Part ii: Justice and injustice

- 1. Is justice a natural or an artificial virtue?..... 236
- 2. The origin of justice and property..... 240
- 3. The rules that settle who owns what..... 249
- 4. The transference of property by consent 255
- 5. The obligation of promises 256
- 6. Further thoughts about justice and injustice 261
- 7. The origin of government 264
- 8. The source of allegiance..... 267
- 9. The measures of allegiance..... 273
- 10. The objects of allegiance 275
- 11. The laws of nations 281
- 12. Chastity and modesty 282

Part iii: The other virtues and vices

- 1. The origin of the natural virtues and vices 285
- 2. Greatness of mind 294
- 3. Goodness and benevolence..... 299
- 4. Natural abilities 301
- 5. Further thoughts about the natural virtues 305
- 6. Conclusion of this book..... 307