

Contents of Reid's Essays on the Active Powers of Man, Essays 1, 2 and 4

Introduction	1
---------------------------	---

Essay 1:

Chapter 1: The notion of active power	2
Chapter 2: The notion of active power (continued)	7
Chapter 3: Mr Locke's account of our idea of power	11
Chapter 4: Mr Hume's opinion concerning our idea of power.....	13
Chapter 5: Can beings that have no will or understanding have active power?.....	16
Chapter 6: The efficient causes of the phenomena of nature.....	20
Chapter 7: The extent of human power.....	23

Essay 2:

Chapter 1: Observations concerning the will.....	29
Chapter 2: The influence on the will of incitements and motives	32
Chapter 3: Operations of mind that can be called 'voluntary'	37
Chapter 4: Corollaries	44

Essay 4:

Chapter 1: What the notions of moral liberty and necessity are	46
Chapter 2: The words 'cause' and 'effect', 'action' and 'active power'	50
Chapter 3: Why those words are ambiguous.....	52
Chapter 4: The influence of motives	56
Chapter 5: Liberty is consistent with government	62
Chapter 6: First argument.....	66
Chapter 7: Second argument	69
Chapter 8: Third argument	71
Chapter 9: Arguments for necessity.....	73
Chapter 10: Arguments for necessity (continued)	79
Chapter 11: Permitting evil.....	83